

COLLOQUIUM

Series

PRESENTS...

Dr. Munira Khayyat

The American University in Cairo

MAR
17TH

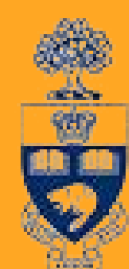

2-4 PM

ANTHROPOLOGY
BUILDING RM 246

A Landscape of War

What worlds take root in war? This talk takes us to the southern border of Lebanon where resistant ecologies thrive amid perennial gusts of war. In frontline villages, armed invasions, indiscriminate bombings, and scattered landmines have become the conditions within which everyday life is waged. Here, multi-species partnerships such as tobacco-farming and goat-herding carry life through seasons of destruction. Neither green-tinged utopia nor total devastation, these survival collectives make life possible within an insistently deadly region. Sourcing an anthropology of war from where it is lived decolonizes distant theories of war and brings to light creative practices forged in the midst of ongoing devastation. War is a place where life must go on.

Near & Middle Eastern Civilizations
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Anthropology
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

If you require accommodation(s) due to disability, please email anthropology.inquiries@utoronto.ca
and we will work with you to make appropriate arrangements.