

Seminar in Ottoman and Turkish Studies

Battle of Navarino 1827 (Ivan Aivazovsky, 1846)

The Ottoman and Other Imperial Turns in the Historiography of the 1821 Greek Revolution

Sakis Gekas, York University

The bicentennial of the 1821 Greek revolution signalled a turn in the historiography of the great event towards Ottoman and other imperial (British, French, Russian) histories. The paper will discuss the contextualization of the Revolution within trans-imperial and trans-national networks, and will focus on the much more advanced understanding of the Ottoman context of the revolution. Works published by historians of the Ottoman Empire, including the publication of primary sources, and a focus on the empires that lined up in support of the Greek cause and against the Ottomans, allow for a richer and more nuanced understanding of the Greek revolution than before.

Monday | December 5, 2022 | 5:00-7:00 pm

NMC Conference Room | BF200B | 4 Bancroft Ave., 2nd floor

Sponsored by the Departments of History and of Near and Middle Eastern Civilizations and by the Centre for European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies